

Answers to Last Week's Survey. We read an article from Travel Zoo (<https://www.travelzoo.com/blog/photos-we-love-to-inspire-your-next-trip/>) about beautiful places to visit – the list is interesting so we decided to challenge our tutors with this survey.

We had 22 respondents and you can see that everyone had visited New York City! Several places were visited by not one tutor – let's get cracking!

Seventeen respondents added another place to the list – their answers are:

Bar Harbor, ME; Danube River, Germany; Garden in the Woods in Framingham when the spring ephemerals are in bloom; Farm Pond Lake, the Ozarks; Greece; Isle of Skye, Scotland (UK); Mongolia; New Zealand (the only place with 2 votes!); New Zealand; Prague; Sanibel Island, Florida! (You can't beat the beautiful beaches of crushed shells and that gorgeous aqua-blue, warm water. And their local library is beautiful too!); South Africa; Switzerland; The Andes, Chile; the Galapagos; Yosemite National Park; and Zion National Park.

And then we asked everyone to choose, their absolute favorite place (and they could only choose one!). Some people thought that it was too hard – but the answers range from “Home is best!” to many places with single votes (snorkeling in the Caribbean; Switzerland; Iceland; Machu Picchu; Egypt; Farm Pond Lake or the Bahamas; and the people of Ireland are my favorite. Two US states got 2 votes each: Alaska and Hawaii. Paris got 3 votes; and ITALY was the winner with 5 votes. Considering Italy is a country and Paris is a city, I think that those votes are pretty close! Of course, one respondent said “No such place for an avid traveler!”
